Dear librarian (if I remember right, your name is Oliver?),

We met once. I am certain you remember us.

We know you collect memories the community thinks are interesting. These are our memories, together and apart.

Please give this to anyone else who might need it. (We don't know what you actually do with this stuff.)

We found each other. We were lucky. We don't know who else this might happen to. They shouldn't have to figure this out all by themselves.

We hope they can be safe and smart where we were not.

Thank you,
